To be Published in January

THE VANISHING FLEETS

By ROY NORTON

A novel of the Japanese-American War, in the course of which the Japanese fleet is made to vanish from the face of the waters by means of an invention of the author's—so possible, so feasible that, while the story was running serially, Edison, Maxim and Alexander Graham Bell all wrote or talked with the author on his idea, to learn where he got it.

This is another "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," with a love story added.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY 9 NEW YORK

The publishers think the trade will be interested in the following advertisement which appeared in the Boston Herald, Saturday, December 21st, and which is self-explanatory:

2000 copies a day everywhere but in Boston where the WATCH AND WARD SOCIETY assumes the role of censor. The publishers believe this book cannot harm intelligent Boston and will supply copies to anyone not able to purchase it at his bookseller. Price, $1.50 prepaid.

Three Weeks

by Elinor Glyn

Praise is Plentiful

The Western Christian Advocate says:
"The power and beauty of its descriptions and the pathos of its scenes are undeniable."

The Brooklyn Eagle says:
"A cleverly told tale, full of dainty sentiment, of poetic dreaming and dramatic incident."

The Los Angeles Herald says:
"Even the puritan condemning the theme must still praise the manner of its treatment."

The Augusta Herald says:
"The sentiment is at all times as beautiful as a poet's dream, and the scenes are described with wonderful warmth and color."

The Washington Post says:
"One of the best romances of the year."

The Baltimore Sun says:
"An example of the most brilliant in twentieth century fiction."

The San Francisco Argonaut says:
"We feel inclined to throw at her (the heroine) neither stones nor laurels, but rather to congratulate the author upon a powerful story that lays a grip upon the mind and heart."

The Boston Globe says:
"The author asks all who read it to be just and not skip a line. The appeal seems needless, as doubtless there are many who will peruse for a second time to make sure that none has been skipped."

The Salt Lake Tribune says:
"The novel is certainly one that from a literary point is to be appreciated almost without stint."

The London Times says:
"Mrs. Glyn has never written before with anything like such poetic sentiment or such admirable descriptive power."

OGILVIE'S TEACHERS' BIBLES—22 Styles

in minion and bourgeois types. Text Bibles and Bibles with helps and references in 16mo and 8vo sizes.

India Paper Edition, Red Letter Edition, Regular Editions, Sunday-School Scholars' Bibles

Nearly five years ago we were invited to become associated with those Bible publishers who are governed by an agreement to maintain high prices. We refused to do so. The wisdom of our refusal, and its importance to booksellers, becomes apparent when at this time we are able to say that our Bible business is entirely satisfactory, and Bibles of equal quality to ours cannot be purchased elsewhere at prices less than from 25 to 50 per cent. more than we ask for them. JUST THINK THIS OVER.

Any of our books can be purchased of us direct or of your jobber if more convenient to you.

Don't pay Dictionary Trust or Bible Combination prices for Dictionaries or Bibles. Buy our books and make more money.

E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM'S New Novel

THE GREAT SECRET

Pen and ink sketch from C. D. Williams' poster and wrapper design in five colors.

¶ In his latest novel Mr. Oppenheim deals with a stupendous international conspiracy in the same interest-compelling manner that characterizes his most popular stories. An American girl, possessing both beauty and brains, furnishes the author with a most captivating heroine. The book is replete with incident, all the characters are strongly drawn and humanly interesting, and the culmination of the plot is a tremendous international coup, dramatic to a degree never before reached by even so successful a story writer as Mr. Oppenheim.

THREE ENGLISH OPINIONS

"The most fascinating story Mr. Oppenheim has written."—Sheffield Telegraph.

"The finest and most absorbing story of adventure that Mr. Oppenheim has ever written."
—The London Standard.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish this month a new book by Josephine Daskam Bacon, entitled "Ten to Seventeen," a diary of girls in boarding school during those years when the world is made up chiefly of two kinds of excitement—sentiment and scrapes. They will publish in the early spring Swinburne's "Tragedy of the Duke of Gandia."

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish shortly a political novel, entitled "God Save the Commonwealth," by Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., who has had unusual opportunity to study current politics; also, "Bahama Bill," a wild story of the sea, by T. Jenkins Hains, author of "The Windjammers," etc.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish on February 1 a volume entitled "Thomas Alva Edison, Sixty Years of an Inventor's Life," by Francis Arthur Jones. The work is the result of close acquaintance with and study of the inventor, and is at once complete, authoritative and intensely interesting.

DUFFIELD & Co. will publish on January 25 "Jaquette," a story dealing with sororities, by Grace E. Cody. In February they will bring out "Women and Other Women," by Hildegarde Hawthorne; "Plans for a National Theatre," by William Archer; "To the End of the Trail," by Richard Hovey; "The Sermon on the Mount," in the Rubric Series; also, "A Modern Prometheus," by M. G. D. Bianchi.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish in the early spring "The Russian Peasant," by Dr. Howard P. Kennard, the noted English surgeon, who is now lecturing in this country on Russia and her peasantry. The author gained his knowledge of his subject through personal contact, having lived among the peasants in all parts of European Russia. The volume is filled with striking impressions and pregnant with human interest.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have just ready in the American Crisis Biographies Series a volume on Jefferson Davis, by Dr. William E. Dodd, author of "Life of Nathaniel Macon," etc. The purpose of this short biography of Jefferson Davis, according to Dr. Dodd, "is not to justify or even defend the course of the foremost leader of the Confederate cause, but simply to relate the study of that remarkably tragic life and correlate his career to the main current of American history."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly Christian Reid's new book, "Princess Nadine." The heroine of the story is the daughter of a Russian prince and an American mother, whose resourceful and masterful lover stops at nothing where his love and the wish of his lady are concerned, which leads to many novel and dramatic situations. They will also bring out this month a work entitled "Money Hunger," by Henry A. Wise Wood, a vigorously written book that works through an analysis of the low present state of our commercial morality into an optimistic prophecy of better things to come. The author contends that Americans of finer grain will increasingly refuse to set up wealth and the power it brings as satisfying ends in themselves; and will tend to make things more desirable than these their quest. Nor are practical recommendations for toning up our ideals wanting. Among these is the emphatic insistence upon the principle that it is every man's duty himself to cherish, and to arouse in others, relentless hostility to the treacherous and sordid chevaliers d'industrie that are now this country's heaviest curse.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☜

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Author is associate professor of romance languages in Haverford College. This material furnishes a very useful form of practical work from two points of view: first, as intended to emphasize somewhat systematically the grammatical points which are under study in the second year of a French course; and second, to acquaint the pupil with the ordinary conversational French which would be useful in taking a trip to France. Vocabulary.

Derleth, C:, jr. Moment diagrams and typical live loads. Berkeley, Cal., University of California Press, [1908.] 9 p. fold. tab., Q. (University of California publications, Engineering.) pap., 10 c.

Written originally and primarily for the use and instruction of students taking structural engineering courses in the College of Civil Engineering of the University of California. The first part of the article describes the construction and explains the meaning of a diagram. The remainder of the article discusses the advantages and disadvantages of the use of concentrated and equivalent loads, and is intended to throw for the student some light upon what is still a rather unsettled problem. Evans, H: Ridgely. The house of the sphinx: a novel. Wash., D. C., Neale Publishing Co., 1907, [1908.] c. 219 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A young American in London desiring to learn something of English country life and also in search of adventure answers an advertisement for an assistant in some chemical experiments at a private house in Sussex. His services are accepted and in a short time he finds himself at Wyndwood Hall—"the house of the sphinx," as he is led to call it. The host, an elderly man, is spending a fortune trying to turn the baser metals into gold. He is aided in his experiments by an Egyptian charlatan and his wife, who claim to have supernatural powers. There is a beautiful girl who is almost the victim of the Egyptian's admiration and whom the hero rescues. Many strange and apparently occult things happen before the dramatic ending in Egypt.

An account of the late war between Russia and Japan. Mr. McCormick was the Associated Press representative with the Russian army, and went right through the war from beginning to end. He heard the opening shot at Port Arthur, and was on the firing line at the great battles of Mukden and Liaoyang. Not only did he see more of the war than any other American correspondent, but he saw more than any other non-combatant. The book is a dispassionate survey of the war, its causes, and its lessons. It is illustrated with reproduction of sketches made by Mr. McCormick, many of them on the field of battle, photographs of troops in action, maps, etc., etc.

Steere, C. A. When things were doing. Chic., Charles H. Kerr & Co., 1908. c. '07. 282+4 p. D. cl., $1.

The Honorable Bill Tempest, ex-assemblyman and novelist, so strictly honest that his career at Albany was brief and dramatic, is called upon at his New York home by a noted Socialist, who informs him he has been elected President of the Socialist Strategy Board. From here out a remarkable story is told, which puts the Socialists in possession of New York City. The revolution extends all over the civilized world, exciting scenes being depicted. Just as President Bill is about to die, as he believes, in a frightful railroad accident, he awakens in his own home—and finds it was all a dream.

Waring, Eleanor Howard. The white path: a novel; with front. by Ja. Crichton. Wash., D. C., Neale Publishing Co., 1907, [1908.] c. 347 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of a man and woman who have had unfortunate experiences of married life. John Standish lives apart from his wife; their marriage has not been happy, but she will not grant him a divorce. Margaret Preston has been divorced from an unfaithful husband. They are both talented,, the one a writer, the other an actress. They meet in New England during the summer time and form a sincere friendship, finding each other thoroughly companionable. This ripens into love, but Standish cannot again marry, as his wife will not release him under any conditions. After a struggle they defy conventionalities and live together as man and wife.

A presentation of a new line of argument concerning the divinity of Christ. The work is the third volume in a series of six works to be published under the title of "Modern doubt." These volumes represent Mr. Wendling's lectures, revised and greatly enlarged. They all deal in a novel way with every phase of modern skepticism, from the deism of the eighteenth century to the agnosticism of the twentieth. "The man of Galilee" is published now in response to a demand and out of the regular order.

Wilson, J. F. Earthquakes and volcanoes, hot springs. Knoxville, Tenn., S. B. Newman & Co., [1907, 1908.] c. '06. 141 p. il. O. cl., $1.25; bds., $1.

Author is professor in Grant University, Athens, Tennessee. He does not accept the "nebular hypothesis" of Laplace in explanation of the solar system. His theory is that the real cause of all earthquakes and volcanoes hinges on Sir Isaac Newton's law of gravitation. In proof of this he quotes the Bible story of the Creation. Considerable space is given to the earthquakes of San Francisco, Valparaiso and Kingston for the purpose of showing the course such events usually take.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 4, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AT THE TURN OF THE YEAR.

THE forebodings which filled the minds of many in the booktrade, as well as in other lines of business, as the result of the crisis of October last, caused them to look forward with dread to the holiday season, and to 1908, despite the consoling thought which we have often had occasion to emphasize, namely, that the booktrade holds a middle position between luxuries and necessities, so that the place of those who in economizing cease to buy books is filled by those who in economizing buy books instead of more costly things.

For a brief time these forebodings seemed to be justified, as retailers here and there failed to send re-orders and in some cases cancelled outstanding orders. But after a temporary and somewhat discouraging lull, the real holiday buying commenced in good earnest, and the advices we have received from the retail trade show that in many stores business was thriving beyond expectations, and in some cases a larger total of business was done than in the banner year 1906; some publishers, in fact, are able to record that 1907 was more profitable than 1906, although this is more the fact with publishers who did most of their selling early in the year than with those who depended on late orders for much of their selling. But the encouraging fact is that the outlook with the turn of the year is distinctly and notably of better promise.

Due to caution in buying and to unexpectedly large sales, the stocks of many of the retail booksellers throughout the country must have been pretty well reduced and will no doubt require liberal replenishing. With fairly satisfactory collections during the next three months, the necessity and capacity for stocking up on the retailer's part will be probably greater than ever. It is to be hoped, therefore, for the sake of restoring confidence throughout the whole trade that accounts will be paid as promptly as practicable, and that orders for new stock, or for the standard lines, at least, will be placed as well in advance as probable demands will justify.

The publishing trade, anticipating such action on the part of the retailers, are in the field earlier than in any year. Indeed, we are unable to recall a January in which so many new books were announced as in this month, which promises to be almost on a par with other months in the output of new books. As it has been a long-standing grievance with the retail bookseller that the publisher has made his position increasingly difficult and unprofitable by delaying his output until the closing months of the year there is another reason why the bookseller should encourage the enterprise of the publisher.

With improving economic conditions and the complete restoration of confidence the booktrade may look into the future with greater confidence than it had hoped to be able to do three months ago.

IT is gratifying to note that the booktrade this holiday season has felt itself prosperous enough to contribute more generously than ever to the fund of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association. The treasurer of that association reports that the amount contributed by the booktrade runs considerably over a thousand dollars—between one and two hundred dollars more than in 1906. Considering that larger and more wealthy corporations this season ran far behind their former contributions the action of the booktrade is to be highly commended.

THE B. C. T. AT ITS TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL DINNER.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS and their guests, nearly one hundred and fifty in all, met at the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of December 30 to enjoy the Brotherhood's twenty-third annual dinner. Jupiter Pluvius again was "on the job" and kept the outside wet, while Dewar, Perrier and Moet & Chandon with the same assiduity attended to the moistness of the inner man. The room was gaily decorated, the tables being arranged in the shape of a horse shoe, the president, Charles E. Miller, occupying the head of the table. At each plate was an attractive menu, the artistic cover of which was designed by H. B. Matthews, the well-known artist and designer; a small stein with an appropriate motto—"23 for yours"—the gift of Charles E. Miller, the retiring president of the Brotherhood, and a card showing the counterfeit presentment of one whose face will be recognized by hundreds of his friends from Maine to California—we need hardly add that it is John H. Black.

THE GAME-BIRD OF THE B. C. T.

After the members had done justice to an excellent dinner of eight courses and the cigars had been lighted, William J. Kelly, chairman of the Souvenir Committee, in a very happily-worded speech presented to Charles E. Miller an ivory gavel suspended from a violet colored silk ribbon. Mr. Miller in his brief response called upon the Brotherhood to stand ever closer together and to spread beyond the bounds of their organization the spirit of good will and charity that has enabled the B. C. T. to survive and flourish. The president then introduced James Clarence Harvey, the "poet laureate" of the Brotherhood, who read the following:

THE GOLDEN CALF.

IN a fair land, far and foreign, Art and Music's chosen home,
In a grand and lofty palace, hangs a painting, by Gérome.
And upon the immortal canvas, lit by sunlight, from above,
He has pictured Joy and Sorrow, Hope, Ambition, Faith and Love.
Fame, with all her hundred voices, clamors for the Muse of Song;
Holds the torches and the bay wreathes high above the eager throng.
Intellect proclaims the victor; builds a Temple to her name
And the scrolls that have been covered, linger in the lap of Fame.
Those were days well worth the living; laughter-loving, gay and sweet.
Now the Golden Calf of Commerce finds us kneeling at his feet.
Wisdom, Virtue, Art and Letters are but incense at his shrine
And upon his lofty altars, we must empty oil and wine.
Fame no longer has a Temple! Art trails idly in the dust!
And the hero's brazen tablet is effaced by years of rust!
Byron, Shelley, even Shakespeare! Ah! their followers are few,
While the echoing aisles of Commerce change the old life for the new;
Change the poet to the tradesman; change the singer to the clod;
Rob the painter and the sculptor, of their birthright, given by God.
'Tis no longer: "What's your story?" 'Tis no more: "What can we do?"
"What's your balance?" "Where's your credit?" 'Tis by these they measure you.
If your fellow man has labored, in your vineyard, like a slave
And from out his scanty earnings, you have learned to grasp and save,
Art comes cringing to your doorstep, with his brain power in his hand,
Begging you to deck your palace, though you cannot understand.
Millionaires, with brains commercial, make their homes a living lie.
With some genius at their elbow, telling what and where to buy.
And the genius draws his pittance, from the overflowing bowl,
And for ill-clad wife and children, sells the millionaire his soul.
Here and there, Wealth joins with Justice and with free and open hand,
Scatters happiness, obedient to the great Divine Command.
But for every such exception, with the name enrolled on high,
There's a score, with smile disdainful, as they scornful, pass you by.
Is this life and is this living? Every lofty, marble pile,
In our boasted Age of Progress, is a monument to guile.
Pride and Power clasp hands with Commerce, to subdue the active mind
And the chariot wheels, relentless, crush and kill, with ceaseless grind.
Once, a song that woke the echoes, with its beauty and its power,
Gave a man his place forever. Now, it dies, within the hour.
Even as Christ came to the Temple and drove out the clamoring herd,
So a new born Christ is needed. So a new creed must be heard.
But, when fades the Golden sunlight and the hours of lingering day
Strike their tents, beyond the hilltops, and in soft gloom, steal away
When the shadows drift around us and the shifting moonbeams fall,
There's a law of compensation to consider, after all.
Fame no longer has a Temple? No, not in the world outside,
But, when we clasp hands together, in this blessed Christmas-tide;
When we say: "we love each other, for the joys that we have known,"
Fame has found a fitting Temple, Faith and Love beside her throne.
There's a law of compenstion and we find it ever dear.
Search the world, but search it vainly, till your footsteps linger here.
HERE, where memories fond and tender, cling around the happy past

And the bright hopes for the future, seem almost too sweet to last.
Jcin me then, at least in spirit, as I breathe a Christmas song
For the peace on earth and gladness, which by right, to us belong.

I.

HARK! The song angel Christofel!
Through Heaven's high arch, harmonious, swell
The notes divine, the words sublime,
That echo down the aisles of time:
Peace on earth,
To men, good will,
Peace on earth,
To men, good will,
The Heavenly hosts are hushed and still
To listen with a rapturous thrill
As up the starry heights the song
On wings of light is swept along,
The talc of Bethelem to tell,
Sung by the angel Christofel.

II.

Hark! The song angel Christofel,
Whose harmonies sublimely tell
The glory of a Christ-child given,
A God-sent gift to earth from Heaven.
Peace on earth,
To men, good will,
Peace on earth,
To men, good will,
Again the resistless flood of sound,
That breaks the stillness most profound,
Now sweet and clear, now higher and higher
Like mingled strains of lute and lyre,
The proud notes rise and sink and swell
Sung by the angel Christofel.

III.

Hark! The song angel Christofel!
And now the Heavenly choirs, as well,
Burst forth in song, at Christmas-tide,
And sing the words of Him who died:
Peace on earth,
To men, good will,
Peace on earth,
To men, good will,
Like some Titanic psalm it rolls,
The music of a myriad souls,
Triumphant on a throne of song,
While high above the enraptured throng,
The wondrous notes still rise and swell,
Sung by the angel Christofel.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Harvey's very effective reading of his poem, A. D. MacMullen presented John Hovendon with a silver loving cup suitably inscribed. It would be impossible to do justice in cold print to Mr. MacMullen's presentation speech; we will therefore content ourselves with printing below a faint impression of its effect upon the recipient as caught on the spot by the happy pencil of H. B. Matthews:

MacMullen Presents Loving Cup to Hovendon.

WHAT WILL THEY DO WITH IT?

The speaking that followed was informal, being led off by Arthur J. O'Keefe, First Deputy Commissioner of Police of New York City, and followed by A. Growoll, of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY; S. Vander Wheelen, the vice-president of the B. C. T., and F. T. J. Nunan.

Before the speaking was half over Brother Kelly again claimed the indulgence of the members, and handed over to President Miller, with the heartiest best wishes of the B. C. T., a loving cup—made of chinaware to hold about half a litre—which he thought would not prove so expensive to keep filled as Brother Hovenden's would be.

Music, singing and story-telling by professional entertainers helped to enliven the speaking and to prolong the festivities, which were concluded at half-past eleven by the singing of Vive la Compagnie, in which Brother W. J. Kelly led for at least the twentieth time. Telegrams of regret were read from L. C. Page, Clarence Caldwell and others. The Brotherhood was the recipient of a consignment of Principe de Gales cigarettes very generously donated, (through Mr. Appolonio,) by the Havana-American Company; several cases of the excellent Perrier mineral water, presented by the American agents, and a very liberal consignment of champagne presented by Moet & Chandon.

During the evening a very fine flashlight picture was taken of the gathering, of which a reproduction may be given in a later issue.

HOWELLS FÊTED ON HIS DEPARTURE FOR ITALY.

COLONEL GEORGE HARVEY, president of Harper & Brothers, entertained at luncheon at the Laurel House, Lakewood, N. J., December 28, William Dean Howells and Miss Mildred Howells, on the eve of their departure, on January 4, for Italy. After the luncheon Colonel Harvey spoke briefly, alluding to the imminent departure of Mr. Howells and his daughter and wishing them bon voyage. He called upon Miss Kitty Cheatham to give a farewell toast to the voyagers. When Mr. Howells rose to reply to the graceful toast of Miss Cheatham he laughingly referred to the fact that in early life he and Mark Twain had made a compact, according to the terms of which he was to write all of Twain's books and the humorist was to deliver all the speeches that should be required of the author of "A Modern Instance." Mark Twain rose after Mr. Howells's confession and shook his white locks at his brother author. Then he proceeded to give what he assured the guests to be the hitherto unpublished record of the crimes of Mr. Howells, both civil and literary. The revelation made a great hit. Among those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Alden, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Duneka, Major T. F. Leigh and Mrs. Leigh, Miss Dorothy Harvey, Miss Elizabeth Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Rood, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bigelow Paine, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Latour, Miss Elizabeth Cutting, A. D. Chandler, Joseph W. Harper, W. W. Inglis, David Munro and J. MacArthur.

THE HOWE COLLECTION OF SHAKESPEARE QUARTOS.

THE collection of Earl Howe's early quartos of Shakespeare's plays and poems was disposed of privately, to an American collector, it is reported. The two names mentioned in connection with the purchase are H. C. Folger, of the Standard Oil Company, and Marsden J. Perry, of Providence, R. I. Mr. Perry has publicly denied having been the purchaser, but there is a possibility that a third and even more mysterious American purchaser may have been the successful bidder.

According to the London correspondent of the New York Times, it is undoubtedly true that a large sum of money was paid for the treasures, and it is equally certain that English collectors are always slow in making up their minds as to what they wish to pay for such gems, and overestimated the influence of the recent financial difficulties in America on the bids Americans would make. From this overconfidence, as it turned out, they were rudely awakened when they read the placard on arriving at Sotheby's announcing that the twenty-eight quartos of Shakespeare plays had been sold en bloc to a votary who did not even give the expectant bidders the satisfaction of knowing his identity; and to this touch of irony was added the fact that the mysterious purchaser had allowed them fourteen valuable treasures after having selected the rare quartos for himself.

Among the prizes that had disappeared was a 1597 First Quarto of "Richard Third;" another was a 1604 Quarto of "Hamlet," as well as others recently referred to in these columns.

When the sale of the "leavings" represented by fourteen quartos was begun, the auctioneer attempted to put the disappointed bidders in a good frame of mind by remarking: "It is very kind of the mysterious purchaser to offer half his wool for resale." But everybody seemed disconsolate.

The first of the quartos submitted was a fourth edition of a 1611 "Hamlet," no copy of which has apparently been up at auction since the specimen in the Tite sale of 1874, which then fetched £25 10s. Sotheran bid it in at $2000. As it turned out, the result formed a precedent for the rate of thirteen out of the fourteen quartos, Sotheran being only once defeated. The single exception was in the case of a 1631 "Love's Labour's Lost," the second edition of a quarto, a copy of which brought a low price in the Heber sale. The Howe specimen now realized $1002, going to Quaritch. The other quartos falling to Sotheran were a 1632 "Henry IV., Part One," $300; a 1608 edition of "Henry V." for $520; "Henry VI., Parts Two and Three," (1619,) $600; "King John," (1622,) $300; "Richard Third," (1629,) $560; ditto, (1634,) $340; "Merry Wives of Windsor," (1619,) $800; "Pericles," (1619,) $325; "Romeo and Juliet," (1637,) $200, and "Romeo and Juliet," (1599,) $825. The Perkins copy of the 1599 edition brought $820 in 1889. The first of the four Shakespeare folios from Gopsill, measuring 13 x 8¼ inches, or 8 inches less in width than the Locker-Lampson copy in the Van Antwerp sale and 8 inches more than the Buckley specimen, was welcomed as a remarkable survivor of the 1623 edition. In its natural state Edwards got this for $10,100. Robson obtained an excellent Third Folio at $2525.

"Regardless as to whether either Folger or Perry was successful in obtaining Earl Howe's quartos," the London correspondent of the New York Times continues, "both have scoured London auction rooms where literary treasures have been offered during the last few years. Mr. Folger has obtained no fewer than eight copies of the First Folio, which is a record number for a private collector. In addition to obtaining the Lacey copy in 1903 he bought a copy owned by the Rev. R. H. Roberts in 1903; one from the library of T. G. Thorpe in 1904; and two from Scottish libraries; one of the latter is a folio that belonged to Sir Thomas Dawson Brodie, for which, in 1904, he paid $2275, or nearly five times what it cost Sir Thomas; the other was that of the late John Scott, of Halksmill, for which he paid $1125 in 1906.

"Mr. Perry has always been fairly successful in keeping his purchases secret; but among the treasures which he obtained several years ago in London was a registry book of Stratford-on-Avon in which visitors to Shakespeare's birthplace had written. This particular book contained the autographs of Charles Dickens, Scott and Irving."

BUCKLER RECLAIMS HIS MILTON BIBLE.

W. H. BUCKLER, who became aware of the controversy over his copy of the Milton Bible through a paragraph in the Paris edition of the Herald, promptly wrote to Major Emery Turner, manager of the Anderson Auction Company, to release the purchaser from his contract and return the Bible to him.

"If the Bible is a forgery," says Mr. Buckler in his letter, "the sooner it is exposed the better; if it is even seriously questioned by reputable experts its value is, of course, so greatly impaired that nobody could be expected to want it at any price. I would thank you to put a line or two in some well known newspaper stating that you are satisfied with the outcome of the affair, for while those who know me would know that I would never attempt to pass off a counterfeit book, there are many to whom the story in the newspapers might convey the impression that I was doing so, and I think a rectification of that impression is due me."

A LOST FRAGMENT OF THE BIBLE?

PROFESSOR HENRY A. SANDERS, of the University of Michigan, on December 30, in the course of an address to the members of the Archæological Institute in session at the University of Chicago, announced that Charles L. Freer, the Detroit millionaire and art collector, while travelling in Egypt had discovered what was supposed to be the original form of that part of the lost gospel of Mark completing the fourteenth verse of chapter XVI. With the new verse as the fourteenth in the Gospel of St. Mark the Bible reads: "And they answered saying that this age of unrighteousness and unbelief is under the power of Satan, who does not permit the things which are made impure by the (evil) spirits to comprehend the truth of God and His power. For this reason, 'reveal thy righteousness now,' they said to Christ, and Christ said to them: 'The limit of the years of the power of Satan has been fulfilled, but other terrible things are at hand, and I was delivered unto death on behalf of those who sinned in order that they may return to the truth and sin no more to the end that they may inherit the spiritual, indestructible glory of righteousness which is in heaven.'"

Professor Haupt, of Johns Hopkins, is of the opinion that this manuscript is but one of many that have been discovered in various places, containing sayings which have been imputed to Christ, but which in reality have been frauds and the handiwork of later writers.

THE DUTCH BOOKTRADE NOT LITERARY PIRATES.

THE president of the Association of the Booksellers of the Netherlands at its ninetieth annual session at Amsterdam last year took as the subject of his opening address the opinion generally held abroad, that Holland is a centre of a literary piracy to which the history of bookselling offers no other example. This opinion, M. van Stockum avers, is not only a gross error, but most unjust in view of the results that the Dutch booksellers have attained through their organization. He takes up in detail the charge, made by the late Otto Mülbrecht at the Fourth International Congress of Publishers. He finds that in sixty years, (1815-'79,) only thirty-six German works were pirated in Holland, and of this number twenty-six were published in that country by Germans. His examination of similar depredations in other countries leads to the conclusion that far from being the chief offender in this respect, the publishers of Holland have indulged in this traffic far less than have the publishers of any other country, and for thirty years there has not been a single example of piracy among the Dutch publishing trade. The Association of the Booksellers of the Netherlands has persistently combatted this kind of trade ever since its organization in 1815.

BEST SELLERS IN ENGLAND IN DECEMBER.

THE following are recorded by the London Book Monthly as the "best sellers" during December:

"The Fruit of the Tree," by Edith Wharton.
"The Old Peabody Pew," by Kate Douglas Wiggin.
"The Little City of Hope," by F. Marion Crawford.
"The Comments of Bagshot," edited by J. A. Spender.
"Pekin to Paris," an account of Prince Borghese's great motor ride, by Luigi Barzini.
"The Reign of Queen Victoria," by Sidney Low and L. C. Sanders.

OBITUARY NOTES.

COLETTE, the elder daughter of Alexander Dumas, the younger, died recently in Paris. She was the wife of Dr. Matza.

DR. COLEMAN SELLERS, distinguished engineer and scientist, died at his home in Philadelphia, Pa., on December 28. Dr. Sellers was born in Philadelphia on January 28, 1827. Desiring to utilize photography for illustrating machinery for advertising purposes he made himself master of the art, and was responsible for many improvements in it. He acted as American correspondent of The British Journal of Photography, and also contributed largely on the subject to publications in this country.

PROFESSOR THOMAS DAY SEYMOUR, Hillhouse professor of Greek in Yale University, died in New Haven, December 31. Professor Seymour was born in Hudson, Ohio, April 1, 1848. As a Greek scholar his reputation was world-wide, he having written and in some cases acted as co-author of many Greek books. Associated with Professor John W. White, of Harvard, Professor Seymour had edited the college series of Greek authors since 1884. He himself prepared several editions of Greek works, among them "Select Odes of Pindar," "Introduction to the Language and Verse of Homer," "Homer's Iliad —Books 1 to 6." "Introduction and Vocabulary to School Odyssey," and "School Iliad." Since 1889 he had been associate editor of The Classical Review.

JOHN CHANDLER BANCROFT DAVIS, for many years reporter of the United States Supreme Court, died on December 27 at the former residence of his uncle, George Bancroft, the historian, in Washington, D. C. Mr. Davis was born in Worcester, Mass., December 22, 1822. He entered the diplomatic service in 1849, serving as secretary of legation in London, under his uncle, George Bancroft, and Abbott Lawrence. From 1854-1861 he practiced law in New York City, and acted as American correspondent for the London Times. In 1869 he was elected a member of the New York Legislature, but during the administration of President Grant was called to serve as Assistant Secretary of State under Hamilton Fish. When the Joint High Commission for settling the disputes between this country and Great Britain was organized in 1871 Mr. Davis acted as its secretary on the part of the United States. He prepared, by direction of the Secretary of State, the "Case of the United States," for submission before the tribunal of arbitration at Geneva to determine the Alabama claims, and served as the United States political agent for managing and conducting its business there, resigning his assistant secretaryship for that purpose. His statement of the American side of the controversy made a volume of five hundred pages, and was accompanied by seven large volumes detailing the American claims and embracing the correspondence thereon. This voluminous work was followed by supplemental claims and specifications. At the conclusion of his labors he was reappointed Assistant Secretary of State. In 1874 he was appointed as United States Minister to Germany, and in 1877 he was appointed Judge of the United States Court of Claims. In 1883 he received his appointment as reporter of the United States Supreme Court, a post that he continued to hold until five years ago. Mr. Davis was the author of "The Massachusetts Justice," "The Case of the United States Before the Tribunal of Arbitration at Geneva," "Treaties of the United States, with Notes," "Mr. Fish and the Alabama Claims" and "The Centennial Appendix to the Reports of the United States Supreme Court." His "Reports" of that court begin with volume 108.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

After a long fight E. G. Lewis has obtained second-class privileges for the Woman's Magazine, and the January issue will be mailed, it is said, not later than January 6.

The Canadian News Agent, Booksellers and Stationers' Journal has absorbed the Canadian Booksellers' and Stationers' Journal, and will be published monthly by the Brown-Searle Publishing Company, 89 Wellington Street, Toronto, at $1 a year.

The first issue of the new Harvard Theological Review is to appear at once with the imprint of The Macmillan Company. This periodical has been founded as an undenominational organ of theological opinion, to be edited under the direction of the Faculty of Divinity in Harvard University. The board of editors in immediate charge consists of Professors G. F. Moore, (chairman,) W. W. Fenn and J. H. Ropes.

For the first time since its organization ten years ago the affairs of the Judge Company, the publishers of Judge, Leslie's Weekly, Judge's Quarterly, Sis Hopkins and Magazine of Fun, (Judge's Library,) are under the control of one man instead of a board of directors representing conflicting interests. The announcement of the purchase of a majority of the securities by John A. Sleicher, who for many years has been the editor of Leslie's Weekly and for the past two years president of the Judge Company, signifies his complete control, and it is expected that they will enter upon a new career of prosperity, backed as they are now said to be by abundant financial resources.

In The International Studio for January Morris Lee King continues his most interesting series of articles on "Practical Bookbinding," the most competent treatment of the subject from the artisan's as well as the artist's point of view as yet published. The present instalment treats of "turning in the covers," "adjusting the leather over the headband," "tying up" and "leather joints or hinges." The articles, as already noted, are illustrated with diagrams and reproductions of representative book covers. In the same issue, in the department of "Studio Talk," is a talk on book cover designs with half-tone reproductions of book covers by J. H. S. Bates, F. D. Rye, Mrs. Pearson-Gee, Katherine Adams, Muriel Möller, and F. Sangorski and G. Sutcliffe. Both articles should interest the manufacturer of books as well as the book collector and bookseller. Walter A. Johnson, formerly connected with the Four-Track News and its successor, The Travel Magazine, is now business manager of The International Studio, published by the John Lane Company.

Life, America's satirical and humorous journal, is just now celebrating its twenty-fifth birthday. The event takes the form of an anniversary number with cover ornamented with reductions of many of Life's most famous cartoons and sketches. The centre cartoon of this issue represents Life receiving the congratulations of the President of the United States, the crowned heads of Europe, the Arts and Sciences, the numerous Presidential candidates, Anthony Comstock, the W. C. T. U. and others too numerous to mention. There are other pictures symbolical of the event and touching on Life's many fights for the better, when it was not the stronger, cause. The text is largely made up of reminiscent articles by John A. Mitchell, E. S. Martin, James S. Metcalfe and Thomas L. Masson. Among its other attractive features is an impressive full-page drawing by Charles Dana Gibson, whose newer work has not been seen in America since his departure for Europe to study in foreign studios. Life has many friends in America, and they will all rejoice in this evidence of its vigorous existence and continued prosperity.

PERSONAL NOTES.

William J. Watt has withdrawn from the firm of The John McBride Company, and in the future will only represent them as a general salesman on the road.

Theodore Arnold, for a number of years connected with Cushing & Co. and Nunn & Co., of Baltimore, Md., has associated himself with the Eichelberger Book Company, also of Baltimore.

B. G. Eichelberger, owing to the climate and high altitude, was obliged to give up his engagement in Salt Lake City. He is back in New York representing the Manhattan Press, 474 West Broadway.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Cambridge [Mass.] Public Library has brought out "A Bibliography of William James Rolfe." The compiler, in a biographic note prefixed to the bibliography, explains that "This bibliography is necessarily very incomplete, except for the list of books, as Dr. Rolfe has kept no record and few copies of his contributions to periodicals. He has forgotten even the names of some of these periodicals. Moreover, most of the matter being unsigned or signed with forgotten pseudonyms, it would now be impossible or very difficult to trace it. (40 p. 32°.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

C. M. Clark Publishing Company, Boston, will bring out in the spring a nature story by Florence J. Lewis, entitled "Climbing Up to Nature."

The Berger Company, Buffalo, N. Y., have a limited supply of titles suitable for St. Valentine's and Easter, of which a list will be sent on application. They have just ready a reprint edition of "Peter Rabbit," with all the illustrations in color and half-tone and full text.

Dodd, Mead & Co. announce that owing to increased cost of manufacture they have found it necessary to raise the price to dealers of their Ajax Series. The new schedule will be furnished on application. They have also raised the list price of "Two Teddy Bears in Toyland" to $1.

The Century Company will publish next month a new story by Anne Warner, of "Susan Clegg" fame, to be entitled "Seeing England with Uncle John;" also, "Come and Find Me," by Elizabeth Robbins, a story of life in the West and in Alaska, now running serially in the Century Magazine.

The Funk & Wagnalls Company expect to bring out this month a novel entitled "The Magnet," by Alfred C. Crozier, who deals with the dangerous methods and power employed in Wall Street for unworthy ends, including the regulation of railroads, the work of corporation lawyers and the currency question.

Anthony Comstock, as agent of the Society for the Suppression of Vice, has requested the United States district attorney to determine whether Elinor Glyn's book, "Three Weeks," comes within section 3893 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which prohibits sending through the mails obscene, lewd or lascivious matter.

Life Publishing Co., 17 West Thirty-first Street, New York City, will publish about January 10 a volume entitled "A Few Months Later, a Sequel to Three Weeks by Elinor Glyn." The book is announced to be not only a laughable burlesque on the Englishwoman's notorious book, but is also a satirical rebuke to her and to those who have given her and her work their vogue.

A new book by Mr. Winston Churchill is always an event of prime importance in the year's literary affairs. Ever since the publication of "Coniston" nearly two years ago, Mr. Churchill has been at work on a novel, the title and subject of which have not yet been divulged, and his publishers, The Macmillan Company, now announce that it will appear in the course of the first half of the year.

B. W. Dodge & Co. will publish shortly "The Career of a Journalist," by William Salisbury, who has had nine years' experience on various newspapers in this country, and who claims to have found journalism anything but a creditable profession. They will also bring out immediately "Who's Who on the Stage," with biographies of the prominent people on the stage, illustrated with fifty full-page portraits.

THE annual dinner of the Booksellers' League will be given at the rooms of the Aldine Association in New York on the evening of January 16. The speakers who have promised to help entertain the League are Frederick Burton, American correspondent of the London Mail; Josiah Strong and the Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Slicer. One or two other speakers are expected to be present and there will also be some music. Altogether, an enjoyable evening is in prospect.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation the fourth volume of Harvard Economic Studies, on the subject of "Railroad Reorganization," by Stuart Daggett, Ph.D., instructor in economics in Harvard University. It is a study in railroad finance, with particular reference to bankruptcy and subsequent rehabilitation of property. Among the companies studied are the Union Pacific, the Northern Pacific, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Reading and the Southern.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY have just ready "Hubert and John Van Eyck," by James Weale, whose life has been devoted to the study of the Dutch school of painters. In the present volume, a large quarto, fully illustrated, Mr. Weale gives information of all the authentic paintings by the Van Eyck brothers and also those paintings which are attributed to them and which are undoubtedly the work of their pupils or the followers of their school. While the work is chiefly biographical, it also contains a comprehensive study of the art of these famous exponents of the Dutch school.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish at once in their American Nature Series a one-volume work on "Fishes," by President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University. The forthcoming work will contain virtually all the nontechnical material from the author's larger work in two volumes, "A Guide to the Study of Fishes." Despite the relative absence of technical material, it is expected this work will be of value to students of ichthyology as well as to general readers. There will be nearly 700 illustrations, 18 of them colored. They will bring out in February a novel entitled "The Last Goddess," by Edward Barron. The story deals with the adventures of a group of modern New Yorkers in their search for a lost goddess at the headwaters of the Amazon river. There are many perils to be overcome, but the story winds up happily and romantically—at home.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on January 15 Miss Ellen Glasgow's new book, the title of which has been changed from "The Beaten Road" to "The Ancient Law," so that it will not be confused with two books already published whose titles are suggestive of her first choice. They have decided to carry over into the spring Frederick G. Cook's book, "Top of the Continent." They have prepared an original calendar for this year—"The Bird Calendar"—which will appeal to lovers and students of birds. The calendar consists of twelve large sheets, each containing a plate of a bird in its natural colors. In addition, there is a careful description of the bird and some account of its habits. The whole provides a manner of acquainting oneself with a number of the more familiar birds and should be helpful for fixing the names and characteristics of the birds in the minds of children.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish on the 11th inst. "The Great Secret," a new story by E. Phillips Oppenheim, which deals with a stupendous international conspiracy in the same interest-compelling manner that characterizes the author's most popular stories. An American girl possessing both beauty and brains furnishes the author with a most captivating heroine. The book will contain ten full-page illustrations by C. D. Williams. They will bring out at the same time a new story by Harriet T. Comstock, entitled "Janet of the Dunes." Mrs. Comstock, known as the author of two admirable historical romances of the days of Elizabeth, "Tower or Throne" and "The Queen's Hostage," has now produced a story that in construction and human interest surpasses anything she has hitherto written. The scenes in "Janet of the Dunes" are laid on the dunes of Long Island, in and around the summer homes of a colony of artists. They have just issued a Players' edition of Anne Warner's "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," with additional illustrations from scenes from the play in which May Robson is starring.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The Berger Publishing Company announce that hereafter their business will be transacted exclusively from Buffalo and that all communications for them should be addressed direct to Buffalo.

NEW YORK CITY.—Hooper & Jackson, representing the London Times, the Encyclopædia Britannica and the Historian's History Co. in the United States, have leased an entire floor in the building at 30 to 34 West Thirty-third Street, for a long term of years. They also have offices in the Parker Building, Fourth Avenue and Nineteenth Street. The American representative of the firm, it will be remembered, is H. B. Burrows.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞ Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Best Book MEREDITH NICHOLSON Has Written

By the Author of

The HOUSE of a THOUSAND CANDLES

ROSALIND AT RED GATE

The Big Novel of the Season

A more fascinating story than Rosalind at Red Gate would be hard to find. In it once again we visit the locality made familiar to the world in The House of a Thousand Candles.

A buoyant romance brimming with lively humor and mystery that ends in love and happiness; sure once more to prove Mr. Nicholson our most popular novelist.

Illustrated by Arthur I. Keller
